resources
to build your practice■

This seminar will address a broad range of topics that are highly relevant for every litigator in particular in international matters. The seminar will focus on issues of particular interest to businesses, such as shareholder disputes in joint ventures, D&O insurance, and compliance. Moreover, you will learn about the latest developments in the field of data privacy—in particular regarding transatlantic business—from a distinguished panel, including the Irish Data Protection Commissioner Helen Dixon. In addition we will visit the challenges to product liability laws posed by new technologies and receive an update on hot topics in international commercial litigation.

The seminar features a Women in the Law Breakout Session on Wednesday that focuses on how to build a stronger women's initiative and diversity program at your firm and how in-house counsel for multinational corporations consider diversity in hiring outside counsel.

When it comes to disputes, in-house counsel face the challenge of dealing with hugely different legal systems not only in litigation, but also in arbitration. Some jurisdictions allow discovery and some even prohibit evidence by witness statements. Deadlines can be short and firm, or longer and extendable. The way that hearings are conducted is possibly different in every jurisdiction of the world. To deal with these differences is essential for securing the best outcome of a case. (Young Lawyers Panel)

The internet, social media, connected devices, cybersecurity: these are the challenges that product manufacturers face today when launching new products onto the market. The legal environment has become increasingly complex, with not only more stakeholders and intermediaries between manufacturers and end-users, but with new ways of designing and using products as well, such as 3D-printing and unmanned vehicles. We will examine recent developments in product liability and product safety law, potential future issues, and how to preempt them before they become a problem and put business at risk.

Beginning in May 2018, the EU General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) will apply to all European entities and—due to the extended territorial scope—to a large extent also to entities outside Europe. The GDPR leads to a significant rise in data protection compliance duties, as well as significantly increased fines of up to four percent of the global annual turnover. We will discuss what corporations need to do to comply with the GDPR. We will also address the challenges of the transatlantic business after safe harbor and look at the EU-US privacy shield.

“Think Globally” (regularly appearing column)

Diversity and Inclusion in DRI: A Statement of Principle

DRI is the largest international membership organization of attorneys defending the interests of business and individuals in civil litigation.

Diversity is a core value at DRI. Indeed, diversity, which includes sexual orientation, is fundamental to the success of the organization, and we seek out and embrace the innumerable benefits and contributions that the perspectives, backgrounds, cultures, and life experiences a diverse membership provides.

Inclusiveness is the chief means to increase the diversity of DRI's membership and leadership positions. DRI's members and potential leaders are often also members and leaders of other defense organizations. Accordingly, DRI encourages all national, state, and local defense organizations to promote diversity and inclusion in their membership and leadership.
