DRI DELIVERS RESOURCES TO BUILD YOUR PRACTICE

DRI'S Construction Law Seminar is designed to enhance the practice of all construction industry professionals—from experienced defense attorneys, to risk managers, to construction executives and even to those who are new to construction litigation. This year's seminar will focus on the experienced litigator seeking to develop advanced skills for getting a case to resolution. Topics include effective voir dire, jury persuasion, mediation and negotiation. Each will be presented by a well known authority on that subject. There will also be in-depth presentations on evolving strategies for risk transfer and an update on the latest court decisions affecting insurance coverage for construction defects. DRI is proud to present a number of nationally known speakers on all of these timely topics. The seminar will also include a hands-on presentation showcasing a construction technique to provide insight into the actual construction work that underlies the claims. There will also be a breakout session for those new to construction claims. The seminar is a must attend for those involved in the construction industry. Please join us at the Arizona Biltmore!

David V. Wilson II, *Hays McConn Rice &
Pickering PC*, Houston, Texas

John S. Kenefick, Macdonald Devin PC, Dallas,
Texas

8:15 a.m. Defending the Design Professional:
Strategies for Using Statutory Protections and the AIA Contract Form

In many jurisdictions, design professionals, such as architects and engineers, are afforded unique statutory protections from liability. In addition, the American Institute of Architects (AIA) promulgates contract forms for construction that are widely used. These contracts also include very favorable terms for the design professionals. Being merely aware of the provisions is not enough; you need advanced knowledge of these defenses, whether you defend design professionals or contractors. Don't be surprised by these increasingly important issues.

John P. Cahill, Jr., *Hays McConn Rice &
Pickering PC*, Houston, Texas

9:10 a.m. Choose Your Audience Wisely: Effective
Techniques for Voir Dire

Selecting a jury in a construction case takes skill, knowledge and preparation. Mr. Hirschhorn, a nationally known attorney-psychologist, will present insight into advanced jury selection tactics and teach techniques to identify and eliminate juror bias and build juror confidence in the construction defendant.

Robert B. Hirschhorn, *Cathy E. Bennett &
Associates Inc.*, Lewisville, Texas

10:00 a.m. Refreshment Break10:15 a.m. Latest Developments in Construction Defect
Insurance Coverage Law

There is never a quiet time when it comes to insurance coverage for construction defects. It is imperative to keep up with an ever-changing landscape. If you have been too busy to read all the recent cases that affect your practice, your clients or your company, don't worry. Mr. Shidlofsky has analyzed them and he will cover the latest and greatest cases from the past year. This is one session you cannot afford to miss!

Lee H. Shidlofsky, Shidlofsky Law Firm PLLC,
Austin, Texas

11:10 a.m. The Blame Game in Catastrophic Injury Cases:
Sorting Out the Finger Pointing Issues with Statutory Liability, Risk Transfer, Indemnity,
OCIPS and Wrap Programs

Risk transfer is always an important facet of the construction claim. Understanding how and when risk transfer works and when it does not is critical for lawyers, whether they represent owners, general contractors or subcontractors. Ms. Black will discuss these topics, as well as issues with additional insured status and vertical exhaustion vs. horizontal exhaustion. Owner controlled insurance programs (OCIPs) and contractor controlled insurance programs (CCIPs) will also be covered, along with the issues they bring.

Lisa J. Black, *Traub Lieberman Straus &
Shrewsbury LLP*, New York, New York

12:00 p.m. Lunch (on your own)

1:15 p.m. Avoiding a Blast from the Past: Controlling Tail Issues for Developers and Contractors
Issues sometimes arise long after the construction dust has settled. These issues present an unexpected and unpleasant surprise for the unwary. An industry professional will provide an overview and comparison of OCIPs and CCIPs, as well as strategies for staying in tune with these issues and how to handle them successfully when they do arise.

Timothy B. Walker, Willis of New York,
New York, New York

2:10 p.m. Ethical Considerations in Mediation and Negotiations

Bluffing or lying? Lawyers are often challenged to stay on the right side of the line while still being a zealous advocate. Mr. Hochuli, a well respected litigator with an interesting side job as an NFL referee, will use his NFL experiences to cite examples of the art of ethical negotiation and mediation.

Edward G. Hochuli, Jones Skelton & Hochuli PLC, Phoenix, Arizona

3:10 p.m. Refreshment Break

TRACKS RUN CONCURRENTLY FROM 3:25–5:00 P.M.

Kenefick, Macdonald Devin PC, Dallas, TexasSean W. Martin, Leitner Williams Dooley & Napolitan PLLC, Chattanooga, Tennessee8:05 a.m. The Importance of Getting to Resolution: A Client's Perspective

As litigators, we love litigation: the battle, the strategy, the arguments and the trial. Clients have a different perspective: litigation is disruptive, costly and uncertain, even if it is sometimes unavoidable. Listen as a general counsel of a worldwide company discusses litigation from the client's perspective and learn how to be more effective in handling your client's litigated matters.

Josh M. McMorrow, Air Liquide Process & Construction Inc., Houston, Texas9:00 a.m. Making the Points to Win Your Case: How Juries Decide

Understanding how jurors decide issues is fundamental to persuading those jurors. In this session, an experienced trial attorney will examine how and why juries reach the decisions they do, with a focus on how you can sharpen your presentation by making sure you present the evidence that matters.

Nicole Whyte, Bremer Whyte Brown & O'Meara LLP, Newport Beach, California10:00 a.m. Refreshment Break10:15 a.m. Now the Buck Stops Here: The Trend in Anti-Indemnity Statutes and Reforms—A Fifty State Overview

Practitioners and industry professionals know that indemnity and additional insured issues are present in every case they handle. Legislatures across the country have taken notice and are beginning to act. This session discusses that trend, its origins and the likely impact it will have on our practices.

Kamy Molavi, Freeman Mathis & Gary LLP, Atlanta, Georgia11:00 a.m. Panel Discussion: Effective Construction Mediation

An experienced panel will address effective means and strategies for presenting your case at mediation. All sides will be represented, as the panel is composed of a plaintiffs' lawyer, a defense lawyer and a mediator. This engaging and insightful session will offer a glimpse inside the mindset of each component of a successful mediation.

Robert C. Carlson, Jr., Koeller Nebeker Carlson & Haluck LLP, San Diego, CaliforniaKenneth S. Kasdan, Kasdan Simonds Weber & Vaughan LLP, Irvine, CaliforniaThe Honorable Christopher M. Skelly (retired), Scott & Skelly LLC, Phoenix, Arizona12:00 p.m. Enforcing Arbitration Agreements Against Non-Signatories

As more courts become receptive to enforcing arbitration agreements against parties that have not signed on to them, knowledge about this issue is key for all construction practitioners. Ms. Cohen will present the trends in the law and offer strategies for addressing these issues.

Adrienne D. Cohen, Law Offices of Adrienne D. Cohen, Santa Ana, California12:45 p.m. Advanced Techniques for Cross-Examination of the Technical Expert

Architects and engineers are highly skilled and highly educated witnesses. Those who act as experts are also skilled in handling cross-examination and presentation before a jury. Successful construction litigators must know how to handle these witnesses. Mr. Kelley, an experience litigator, will discuss advanced techniques to handle the technical expert on cross-examination.

Tovja E. Kelley, Tydings & Rosenberg LLP, Baltimore, Maryland1:30 p.m. Adjourn
